WITH JUPITER PLUVIUS WORKING HARD THE SHRINERS MAKE MERRY

THERE have been other junkets in these Islands, junkets prolonged in ecstasy and of record enjoyability, but the junket given yesterday by the Blue Lodges of Honolulu to the visiting Nobles of Islam Temple, Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of Mystic Shrine, at Prince David's Waikiki residence, may fairly be said to have eclipsed all previous efforts in the luv-giving line.

Soon after noon the Shriners and their ladies commenced to arrive at the scene of the festivities and by 2 o'clock, the hour announced for the feast, Prince David's luau was crowded by a brilliant company. The local masons and their women relatives mustered in force and left no effort unspared to make the strangers feel completely at home.

The interval before lunch was pleasantly spent in social intercourse, and numerous old acquaintanceships were rekindled and the seal of friendship set thereon. A company of musicians from time to time delighted the visitors with the sweet airs of the country, executed in masterly manner.

The scene was a memorable one and the latest Mainland fashions in gowns and headgear were markedly noticeable. Liberally scattered among the crowd moved the stately women of the Islands, daughters of Hawaii, robed in the holokus which only they know how to wear with any degree of gracefulness. They wore an abundance of leis, ulua and carnation, which served to brighten the scene wonderfully and to stamp it with an individuality that nothing else could give.

Budges were extremely plentiful, many of the Shriners wearing three or four, on which were inscribed the mystic legends of their sect. Cameras also were numerous, and many snapshots were taken, principally of the house, the spread on the lawn, and the native ladies who circulated among the byways of the collation, armed with kahilis with which they pursued the ubiquitous blue-bottle until the company sat down.

The mystic ones have evidently taken pains to acquire a smattering of the Hawaiian language during their visit and lost no opportunity of making the fact known. They wandered round and round the ground exchanging "alohas" and "nui alohas" with ill-concealed zest.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the crowd girded themselves to the serious business of eating. The luau which was in every respect prepared a la Hawaiian, was spread on the ground under the branches of a magnificent monkey-pod. The seats consisted of low benches a foot high. The repast was a luxurious one, and every native dainty that could possibly be obtained was to be found upon the board. Among other tit-bits of doubtful identity which kept the pilgrims guessing were opihii, wi, fish cooked in ti leaves; puua laulau or young pig cooked in ti leaves; puua kalua, or ordinary baked pig; ulua, or sweet potatoes; poi, limu, or sea moss; opae oia, or live shrimps; limu eleele, or fresh water moss; kulolo, a preparation of taro and coconut, and squid. Fruit of all kinds and liquid refreshments were abundant.

The rain, which had threatened to fall previous to the eating hour, but which had waited for a time when it should be able to make its presence felt to the greatest advantage, descended joyfully just as the feasters had gotten their fingers into the poi calabashes, and a stampede for shelter was the result. Showers continued to fall every two or three minutes, and in consequence the feasting was done by fits and starts. A lady and her escort would seek the place of the luau, and just when they were comfortably seated and perhaps doing good work with a chicken bone, the pelted would commence, and then it would go on like this.

The inevitable result was a rush for shelter, for a malihini does not appear to the best advantage holding an umbrella in one hand and eating poi with the other. Later in the afternoon the rain gave over and the sun shone out shamefacedly. Then appetites were appeased in good earnest.

When the bounteous repast had been done full justice to, the Shriners were treated to an exhibition of hula dancing by six of Hawaii's acknowledged experts. They were divided into two bands, each containing three dancers. A space was cleared on the lawn for the sinuosities and the spectators were seated around in a circle. The first girls were attired in skirts and bodices, representing the Hawaiian and American flags; round their ankles they wore the orthodox appendages. The second band were clad in white bodices and pink skirts.

The dance was a revelation to the visitors, and the girls fairly excelled themselves. Large numbers of old natives, many of whom have witnessed the principal hulas in Honolulu during the past quarter of a century, were present at yesterday's function, and to say they were delighted is to express it but mildly. As the dance progressed the spectators waxed enthusiastic and liberal, and quantities of dollars were thrown to the girls after some particularly entertaining contortion. "Hold onto the rope!" exclaimed another, "Loosen the string!" shouted a third as the young ladies executed a more than usually astounding stunt.

About 5 o'clock the company dispersed, many returning to town, while a considerable number elected to stay and participate in the revels of the evening.

Prince David and the Queen and her party were present during the afternoon.

The Shriners have extended an invitation to the Master Masons of Honolulu and their lady relatives to be present at a reception to be given on board the Zealandia this evening at 8 o'clock. Admittance to the steamer will be by badge only, and only members

GOVERNOR DOLE RECEIVES.

For several hours yesterday Governor Dole and the heads of the departments held a reception in the Capitol building in honor of the visiting Shriners. The old throne room was opened for the occasion, and all the hours of the morning it was thronged with the guests and their friends and families.

The receiving party, which consisted of Governor and Mrs. Dole, assisted by Chief Justice and Mrs. Frear, Secretary and Mrs. Cooper and Treasurer and Mrs. Lansing, stood before the rostrum and the guests were introduced by the Governor's secretary, Mr. Hawes. Major Oscar E. O. White and Captain W. H. Wright acted as ushers. The throne room had been handsomely adorned for the occasion by Mrs. W. A. Henshall. Mrs. L. R. Burns and Miss Templeton. The Hawaiian band played in the grounds during the reception.

Following is a complete list of the local ladies who were invited to assist in receiving the guests: Mrs. Alonzo Gattley, Miss Kate Kelley, Miss Nollie, Mrs. Mary Grau, Mrs. Edward Russell Adams, Mrs. Alexander Campbell, Mrs. A. M. Smith (Punahou), Mrs. J. H. Fisher, Miss Lucy Adams (Kamehameha Girls' School), Mrs. Henry Waterhouse, Mrs. Bessie Burns, Mrs. Arthur B. Wood, Mrs. Edwin A. James, Mrs. James B. ## THE HAGUE TRIBUNAL.

Harrison and Gray to Represent the United States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—It is understood the President has selected George H. Gray of Delaware to represent the United States, with ex-President Benjamin Harrison, on The Hague permanent arbitration tribunal.

Judge Gray is a former Senator from Delaware and is a Democrat. He was a member of the Paris Peace Commission and is now a United States Judge for the Third Judicial District. His selection will not involve the surrender of that position.

Wisconsin the Queen.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The official report of the trial trip of the battleship Wisconsin off Southern California is contained in the following brief telegram received by Secretary Long from Admiral Kautz, commanding the Pacific Station, at Santa Barbara:

"Wisconsin completed satisfactory official trip, making 17,251 knots, subject to final corrections."

Krueger's Movements.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—It is semi-officially denied here that the French Government has been approached on the subject of the suggested disembarkation of former President Krueger at Marseilles, whence he could cross France to The Hague. On the contrary, it is added, Mr. Krueger is expected to land directly in Holland.

The football game between the Peralta School of Berkeley and the Stanford freshmen eleven, resulted in an easy victory for the University men.

The Great Northern may run to Victoria, B. C., crossing the Sound by ferry.

MARSHALL JAILED.

Goes To Prison For The Next Six Months.

JUDGE ESTEE HAS NO JURISDICTION

Holds That Constitution Did not Follow Flag to Hawaii.

Judge Estee holds in a decision in the Marshall case that Federal courts have no power to review the judgments of State or Territorial courts on habeas corpus proceedings except in extreme cases, the true course being a writ of error from the Supreme Court of the United States. He declares positively that the Constitution and laws of the Republic of Hawaii were in force in these Islands until the going into effect of the Organic Act on June 14th, thereby declaring his conviction that the "Constitution did not follow the flag" in Hawaii and taking issue with the Supreme Court on its decision in the Edwards case. He believes that the fact that a prisoner is confined in the Oahu prison and is compelled to wear the stripes and to work at hard labor, does not make his offense an "infamous crime," and believes that such imprisonment is legal for those convicted under the laws of Hawaii of misdemeanors.

WILLIAM H. MARSHALL began yesterday to serve the sentence of six months imprisonment for libeling former Chief Justice A. F. Judd. The editor of the extinct Volcano went back to prison stripes and hard labor resignedly and says that he will serve out his sentence and will not carry his case further.

For ten days Marshall has been at liberty on bail since he was released by virtue of an application for a writ of habeas corpus addressed to Judge Estee in the United States District Court. Yesterday Judge Estee decided that he had no jurisdiction in the case, holding in a lengthy opinion that the Constitution of the United States was not in effect in Hawaii until the going into effect of the Organic Act.

As soon as the decision was rendered Marshall's bondsman, C. S. Desky, surrendered him and he was taken at once to the jail. Attorney General Dole made a proposition to Marshall's attorney J. T. DeBolt that might have resulted in the taking of the case to the Supreme Court of the United States but he decided instead to serve out his sentence.

"The law provides," said Attorney General Dole yesterday in regard to his offer to Mr. DeBolt, "that any judge of a court of record may for cause shown to his satisfaction respite any convicted criminal for any length of time sufficient for the purposes of mercy and not to work injury to innocent third parties. Under the provisions of this statute I offered to petition the Supreme Court of the Territory that Marshall's sentence might be respited pending a transfer of the questions involved to the Supreme Court of the United States, by writ of error, in case he would wish to avail himself of the right. I felt that it was just and fair if he believed himself illegally convicted that the serving of his sentence should be delayed until the Supreme Court of the United States should decide the matter. His counsel has informed me this afternoon that he has decided not to carry the case further. The opinion of Judge Estee is in full as follows:

TEXT OF THE DECISION.
In the United States District Court for the Territory of Hawaii.
In the Matter of the Petition of William H. Marshall, for a Writ of Habeas Corpus.

J. T. De Bolt, Esq., attorney for petitioner; George D. Gear, amicus curiae (for petitioner); E. P. Dole, Esq., Attorney General for the Territory of Hawaii; John C. Baird, Esq., United States District Attorney for the Territory of Hawaii; A. S. Hartwell, Esq., W. O. Smith and Abraham Lewis, Jr., amici curiae (for respondent).
The petitioner, William H. Marshall, filed his petition for a writ of habeas corpus on October 11th, 1900, setting up the following facts:
That he is a citizen of the United States and of the Territory of Hawaii; and that he is now and since the 9th day of October, 1900, has been unlawfully restrained of his liberty and imprisoned by one Arthur M. Brown, the High Sheriff of the Territory of Hawaii, and that such imprisonment "is illegal and in violation of the Constitution of the United States of America;" that the illegality thereof consists in this, to wit: that on the 18th day of May, A. D. 1900, the petitioner was put to his trial in a criminal case "in the Circuit Court of the First Judicial Circuit, Hawaiian Islands, wherein the Republic of Hawaii was plaintiff and said

PRINCE DAVID'S DEMOCRATIC LUAU WAS WET LAST NIGHT

Wet and dreary was the Democratic luau last night at the residence of Prince David. The skies opened early in the evening and drenched the crowds that gathered to make merry with the good things which Prince David's money had prepared for them. Everything was wet. Even inside the pavilions it was wet—with beer and all manner of drinkables.

Barrels of bottled beer with their wrappings of straw were opened up and dozens of men with patent cork pullers presided over these founts of Bacchus. Men, women and boys alike had their turn at the barrels.

There was plenty. Much of what was left over found its way into all manner of receptacles which the Hawaiians brought with them. As the grounds proved too wet for comfort those who could do so crowded into the old residence of Dowager Queen Kapiolani, now the residence of Prince David, and into the many pavilions scattered about the grounds. A platform had been erected from which to make speeches. It was drenched several times during the evening but the Democratic braves
